The Result of His Trip Across the Atlantic.

SHOOTING NEAR LONDON.

tories Over England's mpion Shots.

ell known pigeon shot, arrived in y last after a brief but eventful te left this port May 2, having in the trotting mares presented to Baron hild by Mr. Belmont, and delivered them, od time, to their owner in Paris After e days' sojouru in that gay city Faine went to ut the business which, as much as anything else, k him across the ocean. This was to meet the best ill at the tran with one or more confesentatives there were looked upon as being almost invincible. All countable terms. That he was accommodated, and he achieved notable victories over England's best in, the American public have been advised by the TERALD, but there are points of interest connected of the meeting of Paine with Captains Pation and theliev at Notting Hill that are worthy of production at his time. Paine, who is in remarkably good health and spirits, thus told the story of his trip to a Henaup reporter yesterday afternoon :-THE MATCH WITH PATTON.

"I arrived in London on a Thursday, and on the Monday following, upon invitation, went to Notling Hill, where the members of the Gun Guo were shooting an important sweepstakes. During the progress of the sweep, Mr. Howard S. Jaffray, upon my solicita-tion, told Captain Patten, one of the shooters of the tay, of my object in visiting London. He said that here was 'an American accumulatance of his on the and believing that he (l'atton) rightly could be called so, wanted to make a match with him.' 'All right, my "ar, old boy," gayly responded Patton, 'anything year want, Jaffray.' So the ice was broken, and in a very few minutes the match was made. I wanted it to be 50 birds each at 30 yards rise, but Captain Patton's offer of 30 birds each at 27 yards rise was accepted. The stakes were $500 a side, and the shoot took place on the 3d of this mouth." THE SHOOTING.

"There was the largest attendance at the club frounds that had been seen during the season, and the betting was very spirited, with Patton the favorite. twenty-fith round, when my opponent was two birds in advance. At this point it looked dollars to cents' on him, but he missed three out of the next five, while I brought down tour gold letters on marble tablets, one below the other, in the shooting payition. Captain Patton is not only a thorough sport-man but a perfect gentlemen, and his great popularity was shown by the congratulations he received siter bring his winning shot, as for a lime the cheers were dealening. To 1877 we trust again to have the pre-sure of hading him as the winner. It will be so it the "right man is in the right place," as Captain Aubrey Pation has now fairly earned the title of the "champion pigeon shot of Engined."

Paine brought to this port two pole ponies for Mr. Will Jadiray.

THE UNIVERSITY EIGHTS.

EVE OF THE GREAT RACE-YALE'S ENGLISH COACH BUSY-MR. COOK ALL RIGHT-HAR-VAED STILL HOWING ON "TIME."

SPRINGPIELD, Mass., June 29, 1876. rowing ceased on Tue day night. Yesterday morning the was out for a lew minutes, practising starts, and taking advice from her coach, Mr. Keiley. not get under way as easily as a six, though, as Yale for it. No. 2 was, as usual, rowing well; indeed, Mr. Kelley thinks that were it not so late in the day, he like No. 7, and help set the stroke. He adds that while Yale's bodies are not together, her oars are; that she gets the catch well; that her stroke is the one in vogue at Cambridge; that there is plenty of strength is the boat; that the men are all in good order; that the story that Mr. Cook is too fine is groundless, and, while he did not say so, he is evidently very conwin the race. She did not row in the after-noon owing to the absence of Mr. Kellogg-her No. 4t commencement at New Haven, where he had a part. This, together with her light work this morning, and, indeed, all the week, shows that she is determined to come up to the score heavy enough this time. Keiley rowed near there this morning as stroke of a double scull, and

SHOUTED HIS ADMONITIONS,
No. 4 especially being urged to do less work at the end of the stroke and more at the beginning. As usual, Mr. Cook was feathering higher and reaching further than any one class. A singular feature in their rowing, when viewed end on, is that the two end cars look longer than those in the waist. This is owing to the fact that bow and stroke sit each in the middle, because the boat narrows in their part of it while the six waist men all sit up to their sides. Often this morning they did not catch the water at once. Mr. Cook's oar frequently in ahead of the others on port side, and w was not parallel with the others, showing that he d d not reach so far. They hesitated, however, less than usual about getting the oar in when forward, sinking it at once and ke ping the lower edges of their blades, if anything, further forward than the tops, and so quite escaping the look of slicing the water which Harvard's blades, by being turned slightly the other way, often give. Neither Mr. Thompson, at 6, nor Mr. Ken-nedy, at 7, swing their bodies enough or throw them on as Mr. Cook appears to, so giving their arms too much to do; yet Mr. Kennedy's certainly the boat badly, and can hardly stop it at this late day. They rowed but lessurely this morning about fwe miles in all, shooting both bridges and returning, the coxswain seeming to do his work well enough, notwithstanding rumors to the contrary. Neither coxswain bobs much with each stroke, Harvard's doing so the less of the two.

Harvard got affoat at about a quarter of six and paddled up stream nearly three miles, to the starting steamer. Vision. Turning, they got away at a few

BROOKLIN OARSMEN.

The advisability of organizing an amateur rowing association among the Brooklya cinbs is being discussed by the oarsulen of that city. The Nerville, Columbias and Pioneers have already arguined a willingness to do all in their power to further the project, and there is a probability that, even before the cudo, the presen season, New York B.y will be the scene of the open; g regatta of the Brooklyn Amateur Rowing Association.

THE CENTRAL HUDSON CLUB RE-GATTA.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 29, 1876. The annual regatta of the Central Hudson Yacht Club, announced to take place to-day at New Hamburg, has been postponed until ten o'clock to-morrow morning, owing to the caim. There were thirteen entries, and ten boats started at half-past one this afternoon, but the wind soon died out, and a postponement was agreed upon.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF AMATEUR OARS. MEN UNDOING PAST BUSINESS.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Amateur Oursmen, held Wednesday night, Mr. Parker in the chair and Messrs. Craft, Krumban and Eustis present, the following resolution wis passed:—"Resolved, That this commithave learned with regret of the attempted exclusion of proxies from a full participation in the proceed ings of the last meeting, and pronounce all action in and of no effect." At the meeting referred to the case of Mr. James Riley, of the Neptune Club, was brought up, and the officers of the Neptune Club, believing Mr. Riley to be a bont fide amateur carsman, were present with proof to sustain them in thee estimate they formed. On the evidence produced the committee qualified Mr. Riley, but ignored the proxy vote held by the secretary, Mr. Garfield. It was acknowledged there was no informality in the proxies, but they were not admitted by the committee because of new evidence not previously heard in the case which was to be brought up. The special meeting which was called and held its season on Wednesday reverses the previous meeting's action, as will be seen by the above resolution. What will be the next step in the matter is hard to say. Mr. Riley is disquaiffed now, but the Neptune men consider that their member has been unlarly dealt with and pronounce the action harsh and severe. of Mr. James Riley, of the Neptune Club, was brought AQUATIC NOTE.

The Berger Rowing Association will have their an nual regatta this afternoon. The course is from their club house to a stakeboat anchored off in the bay.
